Leading from the front – Looking to the future

Mann McGowan, specialists in intumescent technology, are proud to work in close collaboration with the BASF Group. Managing Director Jamie Scott says, “BASF create chemistry for a sustainable future and strive to combine economic success with environmental protection and social responsibility. Through our association with BASF and Wolmans, part of the BASF Group, it has enabled us as a company to provide a diverse product range of preventative fire protection products including Interdens and Exterdens and produce the best solution for every specific need. We can also supply these products worldwide and advise on their use in any application.”

By using Palusol®SW boards, ready-made laminated board material that is durable, easy to apply, specialist joinery producers and OEM’s can manufacture flat and raised and fielded panelled fire resisting door-sets. Palusol®SW is a fully tested and customisable solution that is manufactured by BASF SE and distributed by Mann McGowan; and as the boards are pre-manufactured and pressed, this provides savings on production time and negates the need for R + D on the part of the manufacturer. These tangible benefits equate to lower production costs allowing the producer to tender for further work in this increasing market sector.

In addition to this Mann McGowan manufacture a comprehensive range of intumescent seals, gaskets and kits for door ironmongery. Hinges, latches, locks, pivots and closer kits are manufactured using BASF Wolmans interdens along with graphite intumescent and can be supplied in custom kits manufactured to order for all leading brands of hardware.

Today, Mann McGowan are making a fresh commitment to their customers by placing a major investment in advanced equipment and increased production. This allows for an on-going programme of innovation to introduce new intumescent solutions and further extend their skills and expertise in order to offer the most comprehensive service in the industry.

So when you’re thinking about fire resistance and ironmongery protection, the answer is always Mann McGowan.
